JACKSON-AUDERHEIDE.

Auderheide, vice president and secretary of the August Street Iron Works company, and the August Street Realty company of that city.

The wedding took place Wednesday, May 26, at a very quiet ceremony in Clinton, Iowa, where the young people were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. N. F. Auderheide, Jr., the former a brother of the bride.

The bride and her attendant were in their traveling suits with which they were fairly new and silk waists and hats to match their gowns. The bridal party returned to Davenport for the evening, and dinner was served at the Auderheide home.

Mr. and Mrs. Jackson are spending their honeymoon in the east and upon their return will reside at the home of the bride's parents on West Eighth street, Davenport.

A delicious supper was served at the time of the evening and Miss Jones was given a number of splendid gifts which she was forced to search for. These she found in the yard in a perfectly new and respectable package can—a gift—which she promptly carried home on the street car after the party was over. ## COLONIAL DAMES OF IOWA.

Iowa's Colonial Dames were entertained yesterday for their annual meeting in Davenport by Borough No. 4, and a special social feature of this gathering of descendants of distinguished officers of the American Revolution was the elaborate luncheon that was served at 1 o'clock at the Hotel Blackhawk.

The handsome hall room was reserved for the occasion. Most artistic in itself, its gold and white finishings and furnishings offered a wonderfully appropriate and beautiful setting for the brilliant gathering of women. The doral decorations while simple were charming, being entirely of Aaron Ward roses arranged in a massive punch bowl in front of the president, Miss Alice French's plate, and in innumerable small silver vases.

The guests, 54 in number, were seated at a long table which laid in lines suggestive of a castle battlement of olden days, extending the length of the room; the side opposite the speakers' and officers' places having four small square tables joining it at intervals.

The place cards bore the embossed seal of an Indian in a canoe with the name of the society and the borough in blue lettering. About the room and on the balcony overlooking the ball room were immense bouquets and baskets filled with yellow iris, peonies, tied with the blue and buff satin colors in bows and streamers.

Miss French introduced the speakers of the day in Mrs. B. M. Bushnell of Council Bluffs, one of the vice presidents general of the order, and Mrs. Bryant Smith of Davenport, the latter responding to the toast, "Our Sister Societies in the Colonial Dames."

Miss Elizabeth Nott gave two charming vocal solos and at the conclusion of the luncheon hour led the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner."

At the board meeting in the afternoon the election of officers was held, the following being chosen:

President—Miss Alice French, Davenport.
First vice president—Mrs. Simon Cassidy, Des Moines.
Second vice president—Mrs. Judson Keith, Dubuque.
Secretary—Mrs. Bushnell.
Treasurer—Mrs. J. A. Crawford.
Historian—Mrs. George Watson French.

Registrar—Mrs. J. H. Whitaker.
The Colonial Dames passed a peace resolution which was forwarded to Secretary of War L. M. Garrison, and reads as follows: "We, the Colonial Dames of America in the state of Iowa believe in peace with honor and that peace is best insured and maintained by an adequate army and navy and a full complement of men and equipment in every branch of the service. And we heartily second the efforts of the administration to this end." (Signed) Mrs. Montgomery, Council Bluffs; Mrs. M. E. Johnson, Mrs. L. M. Allen, Rock Island; Mrs. J. A. Crawford, Davenport.

After some time passed in general sociability Miss Walton led her friends to the dining room where a two-course luncheon was served. The guest of honor found tied to her favor a ribbon which she was told to untangle until she came to the end. After a merry chase up and down stairs following the ribbon she found it led her back to her place at the table where a beautiful water set had been placed during her chase, and which was a gift of the club members. Miss Walton was also showered with many pretty and useful articles for her kitchen. Games were played and in the contests prizes were won by Miss Cecilia Burkart and Miss Mildred Garlock.

Special mention should be made of the numbers by Mrs. Frances Jackson Hull, soprano, whose voice and artistic ability easily merits her position as one of the tri-cities foremost vocalists.

Miss Chaney, who played several difficult selections on the violin is a young violinist of rare promise. Miss Hazel Weller, who gave a reading of "Stubby's Dog" in her own inimitable manner carried the audience between laughter and tears. Carlton Taylor's solos were up to his usual form and of course met with a hearty reception.

R. D. Little, a new and young acquisition to Rock Island's artistic circles rendered three songs in a manner which bespeaks fine things for this young man's future. Each one of

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS

MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a victim in a great tragedy and I am coming to you with the hope that advice from you will help straighten matters. A few years ago I took up work here, leaving my family in my home town. I boarded at the home of a widow with several other young men. The widow has a sweet little daughter, slightly younger than I. She is not the kind of a girl who would impress men at first, although she is very pretty, because she is too quiet and reserved. It was months before I myself gave her much thought, and then I noticed a sadness in her eyes and voice which interested me. When I tried to get acquainted I found it almost impossible, and only after the persistent effort of several months was I able to get her to talk to me. Then I bought her books; she is very fond of them and spends a great deal of time reading. After a while I persuaded her to read to me now and then in the evenings, and in this way we became close friends. I had no more trouble in getting her to talk to me when we met, but it was difficult to get her to go with me to the theatre or for walks or anything that took her away from home. I seemed to have won her confidence, and yet at times I felt that she did not trust me. After I was in a position to marry I asked her to be my wife, but she refused and at first told me that she did not care for me when I asked for a reason. I decided to find a room somewhere else, because I was so miserable living in the same house with her and having to realize that she was never to be mine. The night before I left we spent together. I knew by the pained expression of her little face that something was wrong and before I left her that night I won from her the cause of her suffering and the true reason why she was not marrying me. It was the same old story of an innocent little girl being ruined by a scoundrel of a man. I don't care what happened in the past; I want her now, but I can't make her believe that my love for her will last, realizing what has happened. She is the sweetest, most refined little woman in the world, and I feel that this very tragedy has made her a finer woman and more able to understand her children. I want your frank opinion in this matter, Mrs. Thompson. Don't you think that we ought to marry, and that my love will be as great in spite of what has happened?

J. B.
Of course you ought to marry. The girl is depriving you of the greatest pleasure in the world and causing you such unnecessary suffering. Can't you make her see that? Present it to her in a selfish way. Both of you are suffering, but she would do for you what she would never do to relieve her own suffering.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: My sister who has been working in another city until recently has come to live with me, because she has a position here. During meals and the evening, in fact all the time that she is at home, she irritates the children until my husband has told me that I must get rid of her in order to keep harmony in the family. At first I flatly refused to ask my sister to go, but now condition have grown so bad that I feel I must do something in order to have my home a fit place to bring up children in. I know that it is my duty to keep my sister, but what can I do? My husband is desperate.

A SISTER, WIFE AND MOTHER.
Your duty is to your husband and children. Tell your sister that she must get a room somewhere else so that your home will be free from friction. Even though she promises to do her part to keep harmony, insist upon her going. Your husband and children cannot be happy for any length of time with her in the home.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.

To keep celery do not put in water; wrap in cloth wet in cold water and place on ice.

To keep lettuce crisp, wrap in paper bag and place on ice. It will keep a week in this way.

When preparing greens, especially of the wild variety, nothing should be taken for granted, since invisible worms are very difficult to dislodge. After washing them almost leaf by leaf and through several waters, if you let them stand an hour or more in strong salt water you may be surprised to find that more worms, stupefied by the salt, have dropped to the bottom of the pan, when but for this precaution, their presence would have remained undiscovered.

An excellent mulligan can be made from the gummy substance obtained from peach, cherry or plum trees. Place gum in a bottle and pour over it enough water to cover; seal tightly and let set for four or five days.

To Get Rid of Ants—Do not wait until ants are in the house to begin the war against them, but look for the root of the evil in the yard and cellar. Flood the hills with coal oil. Where this endangers grass or vines, pour in a pail of water. If persistent in this treatment the ants will leave the premises.

NEW GARDEN HOES.

The old-fashioned hoe mounted on a handle has been modified into various forms. One has a blade more like a crescent; another an inverted heart shaped blade which does better work in hilling up, especially around tomatoes, etc., than the old blunt type. Be sure the handles are long enough—seven feet if they have to be pulled—because a great deal of the fatigue of hoeing or other work with a handle tool is caused by working with a too short handle. Efficiency and right height can be applied in the garden as well as in the kitchen.

THE TABLE.

Baked Chicken Custard—A fine way to use leftover chicken; a delicious dish. Cut off every scrap of meat from chicken bones and pass it through meat chopper. Measure meat and mix it with an equal amount of boiled rice; season to taste with salt and pepper and press together in a round form in the center of baking dish. Make a custard of two beaten eggs, one pint milk and two tablespoons flour moistened with a little milk or water. If you have a few cooked peas add those also. Pour custard around chicken and rice and bake until custard is set. Fine hot or cold.

Fruit Float—Two cups granulated sugar, juice of one lemon, one tablespoon butter, one quart boiling water, four tablespoons cornstarch wet with cold water. Cook until thick. When cold pour over four oranges and two bananas which have been cut into small pieces and sprinkled with sugar. Cover top with shredded coconut.

SIMPLE "FIRST AIDS."

Poison may be rendered harmless by immediately swallowing two pills of sweet oil. The oil will neutralize every form of vegetable or mineral poison.

Sleeplessness may be overcome by drinking a cup of hot cocoa, without sugar, just before retiring.

For burns, cover a soft cloth with a thick layer of raw white potato and apply to the burned part with the potato next to the skin.

Sick Headache—A Turkish towel wrung out of very hot water and applied to the back of the neck will often relieve sick headache in a few minutes.

To cool beds, slip a sheet of Chinese matting between the sheet and mattress. Fill a water bottle with ice water, which lay beneath the pillow on a hot night.

For tired, burning feet, bathe them in hot water to which a little good vinegar has been added, then rub with alcohol.

SLOT SEAMS POPULAR.

Slot seams are seen once more on some of the season's favored models. Several years ago when they were in fashion they were so popular that almost every dress had a slot seam somewhere on it, but with the passing of fads and fashions the slot seam went out.

On a plain suit or dress this style of seam makes something of a trimming. It is used on one of the new suits where the only trimming is collar and cuffs of plaid.
